ABOUT THE EVENT: Join us in this free activity by bringing your own plein-air set up or by just walking the trails and taking in the view at this historic site. Feel free to ask questions of the artists if you wish - that's what this is about, connecting the arts with the people living here.

ABOUT WESTPORT TOWN FARM: At Westport Town Farm, livestock graze on open fields. An antique farmhouse, dairy barn, corn crib, and stone walls dating back to Colonial times complete the picture of this bucolic working farm that served as a "poor farm" and infirmary for more than 100 years.

Explore this historic landscape along the easy, one-mile trail from the barnyard, which follows along stonewall-lined paddocks. As the trail crosses hillside pastures, it opens to an expansive view of the East Branch of the Westport River, then skirts the 10-acre hayfield before returning to the barnyard.

Westport Town Farm is not only scenic, but possesses historic and ecological value. The farm's dual legacy of nurturing those in need and raising vegetables and livestock weave together at this remarkable coastal landscape, where you'll see ospreys, gulls, and the occasional bald eagle soar overhead."
